GET READY FOR NATIONAL CAMPORAMA

COME JOIN US FOR THE ULTIMATE EVENT FOR GUYS AT CAMP EAGLE ROCK

National Camporama will soon be here, and this amazing event will be something you won't want to miss. Every day is packed with a broad variety of activities where every boy can be challenged, learn, and grow, all while having a lot of fun with friends. But to get the most out of this event, you'll want to start planning now.

Some elements of Camporama will feature a godly man theme where men and boys are challenged to do heroic things for God through the power of the Holy Spirit.

This Camporama Action Plan is a roadmap that explains how to use each of the promotional resources and that outlines the process to follow in getting your outpost ready for Camporama.

If you have any questions, feel free to email us at rangers@ag.org or to call us at (417) 862-2781 x. 4181.

Consider these action steps as you begin the process of preparing your outpost for Camporama. Additional copies of these resources can be obtained through NationalCamporama.com.

1. Review the materials in the Camporama promotional packet.

a. Camporama Action Plan

This is the item you’re reading now. It gives you an introduction to everything in the packet you received and suggestions on how to use them.

b. Promotional Poster

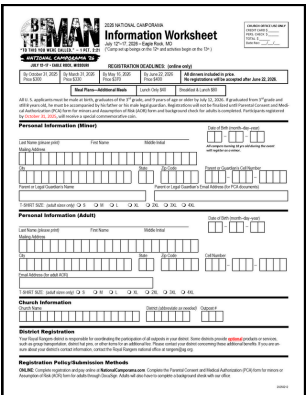

Hang this poster in a prominent place in your church or outpost meeting room to catch attention and build interest in Camporama.

c. Informational Handout

Provide copies of this handout to all your leaders, boys, and parents to give them all the basic details about Camporama.

d. Camper Information Worksheet

Registration for Camporama is only available online, but you’ll want to give copies of this worksheet to everyone attending to gather all the necessary information. For details on the registration process, refer to NationalCamporama.com.

2. Review additional materials available online at NationalCamporama.com.

This includes downloadable resources, such as the promotional video, to show your boys and parents, the Informational Handout (copy enclosed), and additional details about activities and features at Camporama. The website also includes the Camporama Leader Guide, a 40-page booklet that provides all the details about this event. Make special note of the “registration qualifications” for leaders and boys.

3. Contact your district to see if special plans are being made concerning your district’s participation in Camporama.

This may include travel arrangements, campsite layout, or district memorabilia items, such as hat pins or T-shirts. Additional fees may also be required by your district. If you need help in finding your district’s contact info, contact us at rangers@ag.org.

4. Plan your trip.

For many boys, this Camporama may be the only opportunity they will have to attend a National Camporama in their lifetime. Make sure every part of your trip is an exciting, memorable experience for your boys—from the moment you leave town to the moment you return. Look for special activities that can be added to your trip along the way. Get your boys involved in finding ways to make every part of your trip an experience of a lifetime!

5. Determine your outpost fees.

The total cost for Camporama will need to include the national registration fee, additional meal plan options, any district fees, and all outpost costs, such as transportation, meals along the way, and special activities you have added, as well as any special clothing gear you choose to bring. Many outposts print custom T-shirts for their group, and others provide every boy with a special outpost duffle bag to help regulate the amount of gear each person may bring.

6. Plan your fundraisers.

Camporama is a significant investment, but the impact of the experience is well worth the cost. Some families may need assistance in raising the funds necessary. Many great ideas on fundraising can be found on the BGMC website at BGMC.ag.org under the Resources tab, Access All BGMC Resources button, Promos & Fundraising folder. Although these ideas are written for raising funds for BGMC, they can easily be adapted for use in fundraising for Camporama. Whatever methods you choose, getting started quickly is very important as it may take multiple efforts to raise adequate funds for everyone to go.

7. Share all the details with parents.

Consider conducting an information meeting where parents and boys can ask questions and give input on ideas for fundraising and special activities along the way. Make use of the variety of information online at NationalCamporama.com to help you. Let parents know who to contact in your church with questions and additional information.

As time passes, you’ll want to ensure your plans are fully implemented and everyone is kept informed of any changes and updates.

- Conduct your fundraisers.
- Finalize your plans for any special activities you plan to enjoy along the way.
- Collect registration materials from boys and enter them online at NationalCamporama.com.
- Tell the world of your progress! Remember, Royal Rangers across the country are going through this process at the same time you are. Share your progress on Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, or YouTube and give encouragement to others who are doing the same.

Preparing for Camporama is going to take some time and effort, but the memories you make and experiences you’ll enjoy with your boys will make it all worthwhile. National Camporama is going to be amazing, and we’re looking forward to seeing you there!
